

LONG TERM SERVICE

PAUL SAGNELLI

FROM NY'S FINEST TO NJ'S BEST! Twenty-seven years ago, as a NYPD officer, Paul began going to department stores, schools, and youth and neighborhood centers to inform the public on ways to avoid being a victim of crime. Paul also worked with neighborhood leaders to reinforce the relationship between police officers and citizens – especially in high crime areas where relationships between police officers and citizens were strained, at best.

After retiring from the NYPD, Paul and his family moved to Manalapan, NJ where he immediately became a member of Manalapan-Englishtown Education Foundation (MEEF). MEEF's mission is to provide means to enrich the education of the children of the Manalapan and Englishtown communities.

Within a few months, Paul was on the Executive Board and literally began to the move the organization to never imagined heights. Realizing that programming requires financial resources, Paul along with board members worked tirelessly to organize fundraisers such as Father-Daughter Date Night, Mother-Son Bowling, family outings, and dances at the schools basketball games, baseball camps, and guest speakers, raising over $250, 000 to purchase items such as musical instruments, books, and sports equipment for schools in the Manalapan and Englishtown communities.
